

Parental Guarantees:Message to Parents:

The information contained in these pages gives direction to young people participating in the project and how their behaviour and conduct may be changed to become more tolerant and accepting in their own and other communities. It is a unique opportunity to work with the police service over a prolonged period of time.

The site provides some exciting and challenging activities and opportunities for young people and gives direction on how they may become involved in or launch their own community initiatives.

Any information or hyperlinks to other sites will be government or educationally approved material from official sites. There is no way young people can access sites where inappropriate material may be present through logging onto this site.

There is no registration fee required to participate in the award and no costs involved apart from perhaps transport costs to any venue or activity. These will be minimal and assistance may be available. No one would be disadvantaged by their inability to pay.

There may be opportunities to attend study days where team building and leadership activities will be undertaken and advice and direction given on completing the award.

Although not compulsory, they are fun and satisfying and always build confidence and self esteem and allow young people to develop to their full potential.

To ensure that you have complete confidence in this site, the project team has provided their full contact details. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to get in touch through the "contact us" page. We hope that your son / daughter enjoys their time spent working on the project.
